Water District Seeks Increase in Rates - Files with PUC

Bethel Water District, serving approximately 400 customers with domestic water service in Bethel Village and West Bethel, Oxford County, last week requested a 33 per cent increase in revenues from the Public Utilities Commission.

Bethel Water District was organized in 1967 and acquired the former Bethel Water Company system in 1968. Bethel Water District utilized the company rates until 1970 when it filed its present rates.

Under the filing BWD proposes to increase the minimum charge for 1200 cubic feet of water from $9 to $12, or about 33 per cent. The rates, if approved by the PUC, are designed to produce additional operating revenues of $7,469 over 1973 actual operating results, and are requested to become effective Dec. 7.

In its application, Bethel states, "the District reported losses in 1971, 1972, and 1973, and the rates herein requested are designed to maintain adequate and proper service to our customers and that the rate schedule as filed fairly apportions our revenue needs."

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

The Planning Board will meet tonight (Thursday) to finalize the draft for shoreline zoning. As soon as approval is granted from all agencies involved a public hearing will be held to answer questions about the zoning. The Planning Board has adopted the State minimum guidelines and has the required map of the designated areas completed.

The bodies of water affected are the Androscoggin River, Alder River up to Kendall Brook, Bear River, Sunday River and a small pond in East Bethel located in back of the Philip Coolidge residence.

The town will have to vote on the ordinance in a town meeting. Until this is done no building can take place on any of the above waterways for a distance of 250 feet from the shoreline. If the ordinance, as compiled by the Planning Board, is accepted, buildings within this distance will be regulated by soil conditions.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Collista Morgan, Corres. —
The November sunshine, pure and clear, fell softly over the low wooded hills, giving them a dreamy look as Ruth and I finished a trail we had started last September. We went part way on the old county road that once came over Bacon Hill. Then we left the car to follow an old wood road, scuffling roadside drifts of fallen leaves.

As we passed the one and only house to cross our first clearing, I noticed the field of milkweed. "The lowly milkweed is to me a thing of wondrous mystery. It clusters of magenta flowers that scent the air through summer hours, Turn into pods where seedlings lie To ripen till their time to fly."

Harrison T. Hubbell
In places the road was muddy but much used by woodsmen.

Yesterday was all around us but tomorrow was there too. We heard a rustle in the leaves and discovered a partridge tending his native forest floor. He seemed unafraid as he cocked his head and looked at us. Can you not see him at the foot of a yellow birch? He stood erect with crested head held high, banded tail partially spread, pausing, listening, stepping forward, pausing again, throwing forward his proud head, lifting his feet well up, dark eye flashing all around; his life and vigor drawn from the Maine hills. Finally he slipped over a low stone and was gone.

How we liked it all; blue sky with white clouds pinned to their lapsels, late leaves falling in a zigzag line by us, and ferns and bracken, touched by the frost.

The trees were almost bare and the angle of the stone walls blown full. All through here where farms once were, these walls followed the contours of the land, hugging the slopes as if they had roots binding them to the soil.

A sense of time was with them; yesterday, when men cleared their land, today, when we walk through a meadow bounded with these land marks. Some make patterns over the landscape but these disappeared into places where trees had taken over haylofts; long cleared by hopeful farmers.

We found that our old road ended far back in the forest in a logging yard. So curiously satisfied we turned to retrace our way.

It wasn't a long walk but how wonderful to walk along the way and visit on such a pleasant day. At dusk a faint coolness came and night folded down over the country side as peace and serenity enveloped us.

On Nov. 6 in the evening, Charlotte Cole, Stephen Seames, Carl Brooks, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Davis converged on Ledgewood Memorial Home to call on Stella Ring who was 96 years young that day. Darnita Yates

Darnita Yates, a senior at Telstar, is employed by Saga Food Services, Gould Academy, in a chef training program. Her employment provides an opportunity to learn about and gain experience in many phases of food preparation, cooking, and serving. Because she is still somewhat new to this food industry occupation, Darnita relates that she gets a little nervous about the outcome of some of the dishes she prepares, but this concern is not justified according to her employer, Mr. Rayne.

The experience that Darnita is obtaining from the program will be extremely valuable to her in meeting her occupational goal of becoming a chef. Her plans are to attend a vocational technical school after graduation from Telstar, in order to obtain more training in Culinary Arts.

Darnita's school activities include the Library Club, color guard, and the high school chorus. When not involved in school or work, she enjoys reading, sewing, cooking, taking long walks, sliding skiing and swimming.

A life-long resident of the district, Darnita is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Yates, Sunday River.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Death, once again has entered our ranks and taken from us our beloved Brother, Clayton H. York, a loyal, ever faithful and willing worker of our order. We mourn the loss of our dearly loved member, but rejoice that God has taken him to that higher life where sickness and suffering are no more.

Therefore be it:-
RESOLVED: That Round Mountain Grange extend to the bereaved family and other relatives of our beloved Brother our heartfelt sympathy and we point them to our Heavenly Father for comfort in their hour of sorrow.

RESOLVED: That these resolutions be placed on our records, that a copy be sent to the family of our beloved Brother, to the Bethel Citizen for publication, and to the Advertiser Democrat for publication, and our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

He bears it to that world of light,

To dwell in Paradise."

KNIFE-POINT ROBBERY NETS THIEVES $50 AT UPTON SATURDAY

Officials are seeking two men who robbed an Upton store owner of $50 at knife-point, early Saturday night, then made their escape in a car with possibly a third subject.

Reportedly two male subjects wearing stocking masks, entered Judkins' Store and demanded the cash from the store register and from the post office. They held the store owner, Fred Judkins, at knife-point, apparently using long hunting knives. The subjects cut the telephone wires before leaving the store and would have bound up Judkins and a Mrs. Mae had not Judkins talked them out of the idea. The thieves got away with an estimated $50.

The pair then left in what was believed to be a 1965 white Chevrolet with Massachusetts plates, travelling southerly on Route 26. Another subject was believed to be in the vehicle.

One subject was described as being in his early 20's with dark hair, long sideburns and about six feet tall. The second reportedly was in his late teens with blond hair and also about six feet tall. Both were of medium build.

The 7:45 p. m. robbery remains under investigation.

State Police Trooper Harold Savage, Rumford Center, is heading the investigation, assisted by Trooper Hubert Carter, Dixfield, and Sgt. Haven Hutchinson, West Paris. Also assisting were members of the Errol, N. H., Rumford, Mexico, and Dixfield Police Departments.
